

AJM GROUP

Report - Conflict of Interest

Definition:

A conflict of interest is a situation which compromises the decision-making ability of an individual or group because of differing loyalties.

Example:

An individual working for Organization A who accepts gifts in cash or kind from a rival Organization B in exchange for confidential information from Organization A is in a position of conflict of interest as they are breaching their contract by compromising the integrity of their organization.

Requirements:

- You shall always devote your time and services to the duties allotted to you and shall not be involved in any other business either directly or indirectly.
- You shall understand that non-adherence to this condition or a willful suppression of facts is a serious breach of your contract shall result in the termination of your services.
