Report - Compensation and Working Hours

Definition:

In this situation, compensation refers to money paid by a company to an employee in exchange for labor or services. Working hours refer to the amount of time an employee spends engaged in paid labor.

Example:

An individual works for a clothing manufacturer in India, making ₹4 per hour to produce clothing from 5:00 AM to 11:00 PM. The company that employs this individual is in violation of compensation and labor laws, because they are paying unfair wages and requiring the employee to work above and beyond legal working hours.

Requirements:

- You shall abide by all applicable laws and regulations regarding compensation and working hours.
